We've been operating in Western Australia since 2009, and our clients from a wide range of industries, trust us to provide them with quality staff. We have an active database of candidates who are motivated to find employment and are available to work, some at very short notice.

During our in-depth screening process, we assess each candidate to determine what skills, qualifications and personal qualities they can offer an employer.

Our team of seasoned recruitment professionals understand the requirements of the various industries we service, and are trained to identify candidates with the potential to add value.

BLUE COLLAR

You might not always be looking for new staff, but we are.

We're constantly advertising and updating our database with people who are actively looking for work. Based on changing trends, we know what trades are in short supply, so when you need to fill a position in one of these areas, we're already a few steps ahead.

Before we bring candidates to you, we make sure that they have all the qualifications, licenses and experience to do the job. Their work history will have been verified based on a minimum of two recent references.

We believe that communication is an essential part of the service we deliver. Our consultants regularly attend on-site toolbox meetings with our placed candidates, to deal with minor issues as they arise.

Whether you're looking for permanent blue-collar staff or short-term labour hire, we can make the process painless and cost-effective.
